

This form could be used at a public meeting on installations of cell tower antennas (masts). Most likely none of the officials would sign it. Their reluctance, however, would be of interest to the residents who will be exposed to the radiation.

Statement of Accountability

This is to confirm my stated position that the (wireless technology, cell tower/broadcast antenna (mast)) that has been (proposed, approved) for installation in (... ) is, in my informed opinion, safe. I am confident that there are no significant health risks for any adult, child, animals or wildlife living within _____ (please state your view of the proven safe distance) of this system.

I have been informed of the research indicating significant biological harm that can result from the electro-magnetic radiation emitted from this kind of system and mobile phone technology. I have read the February 2009 statement of Dr. David Gee, one of the authors of the BioInitiative Report:

Mobile phone manufacturers will not be able to claim immunity if, in ten years or so, it is determined that use of mobile phones causes brain cancer or other illness. They are forewarned now, and simply saying 'but we were in compliance with ICNIRP safety limits' will not be sufficient reason for ignoring the growing evidence.

(If you have seen a signed assurance of the health safety of this system from a medical expert, with recognized expertise in the health effects of wireless communication systems, please list his or her name and credentials:
